Truman Warns: MEAT RATIONS MAY RETURN

Sailor Pinned in Crash—Alfred M. Weisberg, Providence sailor, is carried from Faulkner Hospital today for transfer to Chelsea Naval Hospital after he suffered chest and back injuries when his car (see right) skidded and crashed into a tree in West Roxbury, pinning him, unconscious, behind the wheel for 45 minutes. His mother, Mrs. Rose Weisberg, escaped serious injury.

Meat Ration May Return

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—President Truman at his news conference today gave his decisions on three big problems of the day—world food, strikes and presidential appointments to big federal posts.

SLAYER HUNTED—Police of Columbia, Mo., today were hunting the fiend who criminally attacked and strangled 20-year-old Mary Lou Jenkins, attractive blonde teachers' college graduate. The girl's body was found in her home by her mother.

The President said he would call for a return of meat rationing if it becomes necessary to prevent 10 to 15 million persons from starving.

Truman Starts Vacation Monday
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The unsettled labor situation will not prevent President Truman's departure Monday for a 10-day vacation in Florida and near-by waters, he said today.

He said he could still do business by telephone from his yacht, the Williamsburg. A fishing trip with Winston Churchill is on the agenda.

He made this assertion when asked if he still planned to go to Florida if the steel and electric strikes were not settled in advance of his scheduled departure.

He hopes, he said, his wheat conservation order yesterday may make it possible to ship 6,000,000 tons of wheat abroad during the first six months of this year.

Friends and allies during the war, he said, are not to blame for their desperate situation. It would be un-American, he added, to permit people in enemy countries to starve.

The Chief Executive said his industrial peace plan involves a temporary adjustment of the government's wage, price and stabilization policy to meet the situation which now faces the nation.

Mr. Truman emphasized the plan will not be a new wage-price policy which will scrap the entire existing economic stabilization program.

He said we all know in this country today that what is needed is mass production.

The present situation of labor-management difficulties, he continued, will adjust itself when the wheels of production are turning full speed.

Under the conditions of full production, the President said, there would be no need for a change in the wage and price policy.

What the President indicated clearly was that his new plan will be one to prime the pumps of production, to get production going to the point that the normal economic factors of supply and demand and wages and management profits will adjust themselves normally.

In discussing his decision to stick by Pauley, he said Interior Secretary Ickes had not consulted him in advance concerning his testimony criticizing Pauley, but that he did not believe this would change his relationship with Ickes.

He told a news conference he was backing Pauley and thought he was an honest man and a very capable administrator who did a magnificent job as reparations administrator.

Ickes can very well be mistaken as well as the rest of us, Mr. Truman added.

The Interior Secretary has told the Senate naval committee, which is considering Pauley's nomination, that Pauley had advised him he could raise $300,000 in Democratic campaign funds from California oil men if they got assurance the government would not file a suit seeking title to Tidelands oil reserves.

Wheat Ban to Cut Work in Distilleries

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 7 (AP)—Kentucky distillers today estimated President Truman's order against use of wheat for beer and alcohol would reduce the present half-time operation of plants here to about 10 days a month.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 7 (AP)—Australian food officials today disclosing a stockpile of foods, announced Australia would have 50,000,000 to 60,000,000 bushels of wheat for export this year.

Hess in Bid to Britain Used U. S. as Bogey

By GEORGE HERALD

NUERNBERG, Feb. 7 (INS)—Rudolf Hess in 1941 pictured an avaricious America, ready to swallow Canada and gobble other choice morsels of the British empire. That much and more were revealed to the war crimes tribunal today as the reasons for Hess' mysterious plane flight from Germany to Scotland.

BY CANDLELIGHT—Electric service in many homes, stores and the Brighton police station was cut off today when more than seven feet of water seeped into two manholes and short circuited the area. Patrolman Joseph Donovan (above) had to work by candlelight in the station. Heavy rains were blamed for the flooded wires.

for Hess' mysterious plane flight from Germany to Scotland.

Hess sought to persuade the British government to oust Churchill and make peace on Hitler's terms. He held up the United States as his No. 1 bogey.

A British intelligence report, dated May 13, 1941, was introduced by assistant British prosecutor Griffith Jones. In it Hess gave his word of honor Hitler had never aspired to world domination and would sincerely regret collapse of the British Empire.

Another intelligence report, dated May 15, 1941, declared:

"On the subject of America, Hess took the following line. First the Germans had reckoned with American intervention and weren't afraid of it. They knew all about American aircraft and Germany could outbuild America and Britain combined.

"Secondly, Germany had no designs on America and the so-called 'German peril' was a ludicrous figment of the imagination. Hitler was interested only in Europe.

"Thirdly, if Britain made peace now, America would be furious, because America wanted to inherit the British Empire.

"Hess concluded by saying Hitler really wanted a permanent understanding with Britain which would preserve the empire intact.

"If Britain rejected this chance, offered by his flight, it would be clear proof Hitler desired no understanding. In which case Hitler would consider it his duty to destroy us utterly and keep us after the war in a state of permanent subjection."

Hess outlined terms under which Hitler would make peace with England, although he continually emphasized Hitler had no knowledge of his flight.

Hess listened to the testimony without earphones. He looked extremely pleased with himself and obviously fancied himself to be the perfect picture of a stoic Nazi hero.

Most of the time he mumbled to himself.

He did not bat an eye as Griffith Jones testified.

House Passes Case Labor Bill, 258-155

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The House today passed, 258 to 155, the hotly-disputed Case bill to curb and seek settlements of labor strife.

Final action came on a rollcall vote, sending the far-reaching strike control legislation to the Senate. There, its foes predicted, it will meet tough sledding.

The measure creates a federal mediation board, forbids strikes or lockouts for 30 days, permits wide use of the court injunction and outlaws picketing violence.

The breakdown on the final vote on the bill was:

For—149 Republicans, 109 Democrats; against, 120 Democrats, 33 Republicans and two minor party members.

By the time the roll call had been completed, 414 of the 431 members in the House answered to their names, one congressman voting present. The number of absentees was the smallest in years.

Just before the ballot, members shouted down a motion by Rep. Baldwin (R.) of New York to let the bill back to the labor committee for further study.

North Station Kiss Bid Costs Youths $20

When Miss Mary Jane Landry, 19-year-old Lynn night club tap dancer, entered the North Station early this morning it was for the prime purpose of getting a train for her Waltham home—and not to be kissed by the first male character who came along.

She made that clear in municipal court today at a cost of $10 each to sailor William Piniak, 21, of Medford, and Anthony J. Basile, 22, of the West End.

The pretty entertainer told Judge Tomasello:

"I was on my way home from work. I was in the waiting room when three young men came up to me. One said, 'You are our long lost girl friend.' The sailor held my arms while one of the others tried to kiss me. I struggled. The police came. The young man ran." She identified Piniak as the holder and Basile as the man in search of a kiss.

Judge Tomasello asked Piniak why he had taken part in such unseemly goings-on.

"I was just in the mood," he sighed. "She looked so attractive. I only held her wrists in a friendly way."

In the judge's book it was assault and battery and he forthwith imposed the fines.

Mayor William O'Dwyer proclaimed a state of emergency late yesterday, after tugmen voted against returning to work despite federal seizure of the towboat industry, and ordered:

All public schools shut down tomorrow until further notice.
Possible use of school buildings for hospital purposes to handle an increasing number of pneumonia cases due to lack of fuel.

Possible use of schools to house thousands of cold water flier dwellers suffering from lack of fuel.

Strict rationing of fuel to public utilities, hospitals and other institutions.

Interior temperatures cut to 60 degrees and no heat in subways and street cars.

A drastic "brownout," shutting off all outdoor signs and dimming street lights where possible.

Meanwhile, representatives of the union, employers and the city announced after an all-night meeting that they had reached a proposal for settlement of the dispute.

At the end of the conference, Edward C. Maguire, labor adviser to Mayor O'Dwyer, said in a statement:

"The union and employers met, and as a result of deliberations a proposal was arrived at which the union negotiating committee is prepared to recommend to its members at a referendum meeting between 8 a. m. and 4 p. m. tomorrow."

700 Adoptions Refused in '45

By PAULINE WARREN

How flourishing is the baby black market in Massachusetts? It's impossible to estimate the amount of bartering of helpless babies and children or the total of profits reaped by doctors, lawyers and other individuals not allied with recognized social agencies. But Miss Marion G. Noyes, head of the adoption section of the Division of Child Guardianship, revealed that more than 1500 adoption investigations were referred to her division by the Probate courts in 1945. Of these, more than 700 were reported back to the court as disapproved for a variety of reasons, and the great majority of these were cases where the baby placement was being handled by a doctor, lawyer or individual.

However, it is this loophole in the state's adoption laws which

Bevin Cries Lie At Indonesia Charge to UNO

LONDON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Ukraine told the United Nations Security Council tonight that British troops had been used deliberately to suppress a people's movement in Indonesia, and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin retorted "lie."

Foreign Commissar Dmitri Manulsky of the Ukraine, claiming the situation in Indonesia threatened international peace, asked the Security Council to send a special commission for "on-the-spot" investigation and to take necessary measures to establish peace.

He said the Ukraine does not ask withdrawal of British troops from Indonesia.

"The Ukrainian delegation," he added, "has ground for expressing surprise that the British used Japanese troops in British operations against the Indonesian people. Such use of Japanese enemy troops against the national movement in Indonesia undermines the authority of United Nations and should not be permitted."

Five Killed in Palestine Fight

JERUSALEM, Feb. 7 (AP)—An official communique reported today five persons were killed and five others seriously wounded last night when armed Jews attacked a British military camp near Tel Aviv.

The casualties included one British officer killed and one African soldier wounded, the announcement said.

The Palestine information service, in an earlier statement, said "Armed Jews had attempted to penetrate the camp with the apparent object of capturing arms."

The communique said "as far as can be ascertained, three Jews were killed and four others were injured." Some were shot by pursuing Negro troops of an African regiment.

British Brides Have Shock Coming

By MAURICE E. MORAN

ABOARD THE S. S. QUEEN MARY, Feb. 7 (AP)—This war-stripped luxury liner, carrying English wives and babies to American husbands and fathers, is due to dock in New York about noon Sunday.

She had been scheduled to reach New York Saturday, but the master, Capt. C. G. Illingworth, ordered her speed reduced to alleviate seasickness which afflicted many of the 1700 wives and 651 children aboard.

As the seasickness subsided, one thing became increasingly noticeable among the travelers—the blithe indifference most of them have for the fact that vast distances in the United States may interrupt many lifelong friendships.

Girlhood chums, scheduled to meet husbands as far apart as the coastlines, hopefully insist they will continue to see each other.

Betty Westlake McNab, 21, who is married to former C.P.M. James D. McNab, 25, of Chicago, has only slight misgivings about frequent visits to her cousin, Mary Bowers Pomparelli, wife of Cpl. Thomas Pomparelli, Brooklyn.

Elizabeth Ann Jones McIntire, 23, wife of former PFC Earl D. McIntire, 30, of Wyoming, Ill., feels certain she can manage to keep close contact with her shipboard chum, Mrs. McNab, while Bernice O'Connell McGregor, wife of coxswain John T. McGregor of 2414 Melrose st., Lawrence, Mass., is confident she can see Mrs. Pomparelli often.

Navy Postwar Emphasis Placed on Plane Carriers

By JOSEPH A. BORS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (INS)—Navy Sec. Forrestal said today that air power would play the leading role in the postwar Navy comprised of powerful world-ranging fleets. In his annual report to the President, Forrestal stated aircraft carriers would spearhead the Atlantic and Pacific active and reserve fleets of nearly 900 vessels. He added: "The carrier is today the spearhead of the modern fleet just as the battleship was 25 years ago."

At the same time, however, Forrestal came to the defense of fast battleships and sea-power generally.

He termed sea-air power vital to victory and preservation of peace.

Forrestal's blueprint for the postwar Navy listed 3627 planes and 319 warships in the active Pacific and Atlantic fleets and 550 ships in reserve.

Forrestal stated the active fleets would also have transports and supply vessels capable of moving two and one-half divisions of fighting men.

Actually, the Pacific fleet will be comprised of 250 vessels of all types plus 31 in ready reserve, and the Atlantic fleet of 214 ships and 48 in ready reserve. The remainder will be kept on a laid-up reserve basis.

The Pacific fleet will be made up of 18 carriers, two 45,000-ton battleships, 20 cruisers, 81 destroyers, 16 destroyer escorts, 39 submarines and auxiliary vessels and transports.

In the Atlantic fleet he listed eight carriers, two 45,000-ton battleships, eight cruisers, 54 destroyers, 20 destroyer escorts, 51 submarines and other vessels.

Growth of the Navy was indicated by the fact that prior to the war Navy Yards and other shore establishments were valued at $750,000,000 and now are valued at $12,000,000,000.

Four jobs were listed by Forrestal for the post-war Navy; enforcing terms of peace on our enemies; fulfilling our military commitments under the UNO, collaborating in preserving the integrity of the western hemisphere, and providing for the security of the United States.

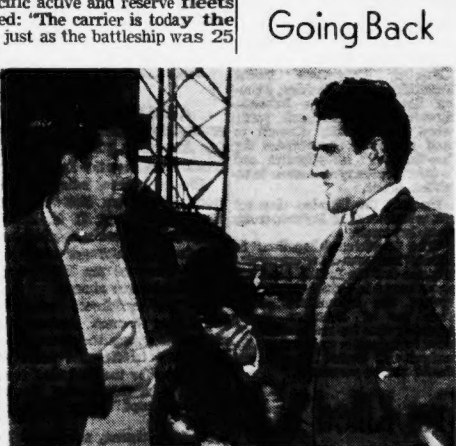

Board Sets Up Plan For Big Postwar Navy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7, (AP)—A special Navy board has recommended a program for erasing the traditional distinction between "regular" Navy officers and those who are not graduates of Annapolis.

Officers transferring from reserve or temporary status to the regular Navy would be given "equal opportunity in every way with their Naval Academy contemporaries."

The postwar Navy will require 40,000 line officers, which the board estimated will need annual increment of 3000. To produce that many officers each year would mean a capacity of 15,000 at Annapolis, which is "physically impossible," said the board.

The board recommended Naval officers be procured from four sources:

1—Naval aviation officer candidates selected on a merit basis from high school graduates and college freshmen and given a subsidy to attend any accredited college of their choice. After two academic years, they would be ordered to flight training for one year and then to duty as midshipmen, with probationary commissions following. Upon completion of another year of duty with the fleet, the Navy would select career officers. Those not becoming career officers would be offered reserve commissions.

2—Line officer candidates selected on the same basis as the aviation candidates. They would get a subsidy for a four-year course at one of the 52 NROTC colleges.

3—A "limited number" of graduates of outstanding technical institutions commissioned as ensigns. Upon commissioning, they would attend a Navy orientation school for six months, then be ordered to active duty with the fleet.

4—Candidates for the Naval Academy selected on the present basis of congressional appointment.

Going Back

In the past, extraterritoriality has existed in Borneo, China, Japan, Korea, Madagascar, Muscat, Morocco, Persia, Samoan Islands, Siam, Tripoli, Tunis, Turkey and Pacific Islands.

Under this system, if an American were kidnapped and killed in the UNO 42 square miles, no American court would have jurisdiction unless especially called in for that specific purpose by the UNO authorities.

If they so desired, the UNO would have the right to set up their own police force or maintain their own army in Connecticut.

I LIVED under extraterritoriality for 13 years. I have in my own house, in Shanghai, given refuge to men who are today prominent in the Chungking government but who could not be arrested by their own government because they were in my house, which was extraterritorial.

Once, at a dinner party in the French concession in Shanghai, Chiang Kai-shek had been loosely discussed. Chiang wanted to arrest some of those present. One, who afterwards became Chiang's minister of foreign affairs, hid in my house.

Chiang knew where he was but he also knew that no warrant would serve as my house was extraterritorial. The writ of the country did not count.

The American minister to Siam, Mr. King, in the course of a note, maintained "... that the provision in the British treaty that British subjects, their persons, homes, premises, lands or property of any kind not be seized, injured, or in any way interfered with by the Siamese," applied equally to United States citizens under the most-favored-nation clause, and that the entire jurisdiction over the interests of the United States in Siam belonged exclusively to the consular-general of the United States.

And we all lived that way. We were little kings in our own rights. The government of the country where we were situated had no authority over us, no civil, no criminal jurisdiction of any kind.

All we had to do was to keep out of the friendly American court in Shanghai. I have seen Chinese abused and humiliated in their own country because extraterritoriality made the foreigner, the alien, a king in another's land.

WHAT LAW will obtain in this 42-square-mile legal enclave in Connecticut? Will it be English common law, the Code Napoleon of the French, or the barbaric police jurisdiction of Soviet Russia?

We are letting ourselves in for a lot of trouble. There is no reason why UNO requires 42 square miles of extraterritorial territory.

There is no reason why the wives and children, the stenographers and personal servants of all the delegations should enjoy special privileges and exemptions.

American soil must remain American everywhere, under all circumstances.

Stowaway Pair To Be Deported

Two Spanish youths who fought against Franco and later escaped to France where they served in the French Forces of the Interior, were held by immigration authorities today after landing as stowaways aboard the Liberty freighter David B. Johnson.

The pair, Luis Armendi, 23, and Antonio Larramande, 24, surrendered to Capt. Alton H. Gross four days after the freighter left Le Havre bound for Boston last Jan. 20. Neither had food or water while in hiding.

The war over, they worked on the Le Havre docks, watching for a chance to stow away. Their first attempt failed.

At an immigration board hearing today the pair was ordered returned. Both expressed fear of death if sent back to Spain.

Homes at $2500 Called Vital Need

Change in building methods to put housing construction on an assembly line basis is needed to solve the present critical shortage of homes, Rt. Rev. Msgr. John O'Grady of the Catholic University of America declared today at the opening of Abp. Cushing's two-day conference on industrial problems at New England Mutual Hall.

The monsignor also asserted the greatest need was for low-priced homes, ranging from $2500 to $2700 in cost, for the small income middle class, which "has been sadly neglected for years."

"Soon after Pearl Harbor, President Roosevelt told the people we would have to produce 50,000 planes a year," he said.

"At the time he was criticized and it was said this was impossible because planes could not be built with assembly line methods as autos had been. But the critics were confounded when not only 50,000 planes a year were produced but the figure was doubled."

"We can do this in building homes but we must change our present methods. Small contractors are lucky if they are able to build four homes in a year because that is all they can finance. Responsibility rests with the government to campaign for new building methods."

Discussing world economies, Prof. John T. Dunlop of Harvard said that there would be a terrific population problem in the Far East in the next 50 years.

"Progress in medicine with the prolonging of life and the cutting down of the death rate during the coming years will probably result in the world's largest populations being centered in the Orient, in Siberia and China," he declared.

More than 800, representing labor, management, the clergy and the federal government, were present when Abp. Cushing opened the first day's session, expressing hope the discussions would prove of value and warning that the people were demanding a new order in the wake of the war.

HOME SHORTAGE DISCUSSED—At Archbishop Richard J. Cushing's two-day conference on industrial problems, in New England Mutual Hall, are (l. to r.) Linus E. Brisette, field secretary; H. Excellency, and Everett E. Hagen of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion in Washington.

Firemen Press For Cut in Hours

Seeking a cut in their work week to 70 hours instead of the current 84, more than 60 firemen today appeared before the City Council ordinance committee to press for passage of a bill submitted nearly a month ago.

Fireman Vs. Little Squirt

LEONMINSTER, Feb. 7—Fireman Clarence Bentley charged dauntlessly into the smoke-filled plant of the Pyrotech Co. and began to do battle with a flash fire. He stepped on something soft. Assuming it was waste he gave it a kick.

Former Fire Comr. John J. Fitzgerald and Walter T. Kelly, president of Russell Fire Club, joined the men in support of the measure.

The committee took it under advisement.

It wasn't waste. It was a skunk. It shot from the hip and scored a bullseye. Fireman Bentley ran out, reported himself a casualty and hurried to the station. He buried his uniform in back.

Fire damage was slight.

Sailor Trapped Under Wheel in Auto Crash

While his mother stood by helplessly for 45 minutes, a 19-year-old Providence, R. I. sailor was pinned unconscious behind the steering wheel of her car after it skidded for 100 feet and crashed into a tree on the Veterans of Foreign Wars pkwy., near Manthorne rd., West Roxbury, early today.

Police and fire departments worked for almost a half-hour before they finally freed the trapped sailor by tying a chain to a fire engine and ripping the door which was very tightly wedged against the tree.

The unconscious sailor was taken to Faulkner Hospital in a police ambulance and was suffering chest and back injuries.

The sailor was identified as Alfred M. Weisberg of Cole ave., Providence. His mother, who escaped serious injury, is Mrs. Rose Mabel Weisberg, 52.

The sailor and his mother were en route from Providence to the Fargo Barracks where the sailor was due to report for Navy duty at 7:30 a. m.

Randolph Vet's Plea in Court

A Randolph selectman, Ralph Hutchinson, testified in Quincy court today he would not have voted to dismiss Edward T. Clark, disabled World War II veteran, from the town police force if he had known the extent of Clark's injury.

Judge Maurice Murphy was hearing Clark's petition for review of the dismissal order.

Mal. Stephen J. Dalton, Veterans' Administration medical officer, testified he certified Clark was able to perform police duty with the understanding that he would be given a desk job.

"I would not have issued the certificate if I had known Clark was to be given a patrolman's job," Dalton said.

Clark was ousted from the force in October, 1945, when he refused to accept reinstatement as a patrolman. He was charged with insubordination and failure to report for duty.

The case is continuing.

OPA Hits Back At Landlords

A no-quarter fight between OPA and real estate groups opposing the rent control setup, as well as ceilings on building materials, flared into the open today when the regional OPA here charged the National Ass'n of Real Estate Boards with raising a "slush" fund to smash rent ceilings.

The opening gun was fired by the real estate men yesterday. Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice-president of the national association, told a New England-wide meeting here a National Real Estate Foundation would campaign for $2,000,000 to represent property owners throughout the country.

The second shot came last night when Boyd T. Barnard, president of the national association, told a meeting of the Massachusetts Real Estate Ass'n the country has "the greatest construction demand in history and the most restrictive control policies on construction that we have ever had in time of peace."

He urged "a reasonable adjustment of rents now frozen far below all other price and wage levels."

Fred Murkland, regional OPA information executive, today accused the real estate men of forming a lobby to eliminate rent control entirely. He said:

"This latest move by the National Ass'n of Real Estate Boards to raise money for a 'slush' fund to break down rent control is not a new one."

"Two years ago they went after millions. In this part of the country they raised the astounding total of about $1500."

"These men will not be satisfied with adjustments or relief from whatever pressure, if any, the rent control regulation pushes against them. They want rent control eliminated completely."

William F. Riley, area rent director, said 1700 landlords have filed applications to evict tenants since Jan. 1.

Court in Warning On Alimony Delay

Anthony S. Bruno, Massachusetts ave., South Ed, filling station man, paid $300 of $496 support arrears to his divorced wife, Mary Bruno of Coleman st., Dorchester, in probate court today, then received a lecture on threatening judges.

Judge Robert Gardner Wilson, Jr., stated:

"It has been reported to me he has made threats, not only against his former wife, but against me. That's the quickest way to be brought before me." He told Bruno:

"This woman is not be compelled to sit on the curbstone outside your gas station and wait for the money each week. It is to be sent by money order and registered mail."

He continued the case. Mrs. Bruno had brought a petition asking that her former mate be held in contempt.

Essex County Buildings Urged

New buildings in Essex County costing $1,250,000 were proposed in measures considered today by the joint legislative committee on counties.

Erection of a new jail at a cost of $600,000 was urged by County Commissioners J. Fred Manning and Arthur A. Thompson.

A $300,000 addition to Essex County Agricultural School was sought by school trustees at new construction at the County Tuberculosis Hospital was advocated at a cost of $350,000.

Night Club Photo Snares Girl as Fur Coat Thief

Miss Mary DiGeorge, 20, of Moon st., North End, a parolee from Sherborn, according to police, had her picture taken by a night club photographer a few nights ago and as an indirect result, was charged in municipal court today with the larceny of two fur coats valued at $200 each.

She pleaded not guilty, the case was continued to Feb. 12 by Judge Frank W. Tomasello and she was held in bail of $300.

Sgt. Charles H. Berkebile of the Warren ave. station told the court Miss DiGeorge had entered an Essex st. night club Monday night and stolen a mouton lamb coat which a waitress, Mrs. Evelyn Phillips of Worcester st., South End, had left in a booth.

Early yesterday, the officer added, Miss DiGeorge also made off with the mouton lamb coat of Miss Helen Mercia, Cazenove st., South End, at a Warren st. night club where Miss Mercia is employed.

He said he arrested the defendant in a Beach st. night club last night when, armed with her night club photo, he recognized his quarry.

Harbor Pilots Ass'n Assailed

The Boston Harbor Pilots Ass'n is a closed corporation and a monopoly perhaps violating the Sherman anti-trust act, Rep. John Carroll, Boston, declared today at a hearing before the legislative committee on harbors and public lands.

Before the committee were proposals to establish a division of marine safety, pilotage and salvage, the Governor to appoint commissioners and deputes with the consent of the executive council.

George O. Barnes, representing the Boston harbor pilots, explained pilots are now appointed by pilot commissioners on the recommendation of the Marine Ass'n, the present system dating back 150 years. He urged no change.

Senators Quiz Allen On $5,000 Jobs

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—George E. Allen, presidential adviser and nominee for an RFC directorship, said today his income had climbed of Columbia commissioner in 1938 to about $50,000 annually.

He testified at a Senate banking committee hearing on his RFC nomination he is an officer or director of 25 firms while maintaining a desk in the White House as President Truman's confidante.

One firm, the Home Insurance Co., pays him $28,000 a year to handle public relations, he said. In addition, he gets $6,000 a year as director of Aviation Corp. and another $6,000 as director of Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp. Other directorships pay from $20 to $50 a meeting, he said.

His salary as a member of the RFC board would be $10,000.

He said he had "turned down" many corporate directorships and had never used his influence with government departments for the Home Insurance Co., of which he is vice-president and secretary, or for other companies.

Sen. Millikin (R.) of Colorado had asked if it wasn't fair to assume Allen had been "influencing in a favorable way departments of the government that have relations with the (Home) company."

Allen said he had maintained a close relationship with Harry Hopkins, adviser to President Roosevelt, until Hopkins' death recently.

"When did you develop this? I call it—easy access to President Truman?" asked Millikin. He first became well acquainted with the President, Allen said, when Chairman Hararegan asked him to iron out difficulties between the AFL and the CIO over who was to sponsor Truman's Labor Day speech in Detroit in the 1944 campaign.

He testified most of his experience before becoming District of Columbia commissioner had been as publicity director for Chambers of Commerce and hotel chains.

Mine Sweeper Fleet Homeward Bound

PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 7 (AP)—Minesweepers, first to arrive for Pacific invasions and last to leave, finally are homeward bound. One of the largest groups ever assembled—90 ships in all—is in this harbor. Forty-six have departed for the States since Jan. 13. Others are leaving daily.

The 136-foot YMS-222 claims 328 mines swept or destroyed; and the YMS-183 has been on duty 29 consecutive months. The YMS-286 shot down three Japanese planes.

This Doggy Was Tar's Best Friend

BELMONT, N. H., Feb. 7 (AP)—S 1c William Sturgeon of Belmont, honorably discharged from the Navy at Boston Monday, was thankful today that a certain Suncook dog has the habit of picking up articles and bringing them to a garage man there.

Sturgeon, hitchhiking home, lost his wallet with cash, papers and a mustering-out check for $100. He was well on the way to Laconia before he discovered his loss.

Meanwhile, the dog had picked up the billfold and brought it to his garage pal. The man notified Albert Richotte, Suncook Legion commander, who located Sturgeon.

Fear Race Trouble for UNO in NY

LONDON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Russia and China expressed approval today of the Stamford-Greenwich-Westchester area of Connecticut and New York as permanent headquarters of the United Nations, but France asked a long delay and a reconsideration of New York city as the interim site.

French representative J. Fournier Duparc said the decision should be postponed until September of next year.

"New York has a huge Jewish colony," Duparc said. "Suppose the Palestine question came up. Do you really think we could debate it in law and order? Do you think a question involving the United States could be discussed calmly and peacefully in the biggest city in the United States?"

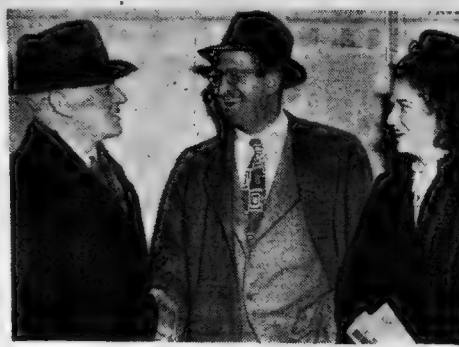

Discussing complaints from citizens in the area recommended as headquarters, he said he wondered "whether we are doing our part in the United Nations in creating some new kind of displaced persons in the United States itself."

Greenwich Protest Meeting Called Illegal

GREENWICH, Ct., Feb. 7 (AP)—The town meeting which Monday night voted 110 to 55 in opposition to locating UNO world headquarters in the Greenwich-Westchester area today was called "illegal."

Charles Carvette, Sr., town meeting representative from the Cos Cob district, said he would seek to institute a "citizens' suit" to prevent a proposed referendum on the question on Feb. 23.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Rep. Clare Boothe Luce (R.) of Connecticut sent to Sec. Byrnes today a resolution of officials of Greenwich, Ct., opposing placing the United Nations capitol in that area.

Navy Cover-Up Order Denied

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Capt. A. D. Kramer told Pearl Harbor investigators today he never heard of any order for Navy Department personnel to destroy personal memoranda concerning events preceding Japan's Dec. 7, 1941 attack.

He said he was "astounded" by Capt. L. F. Safford's testimony last week that such an order from Adm. Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, was passed verbally through the Navy Department a few days after the attack.

Safford testified he relayed the order to Kramer. He said naval personnel were told such memoranda might fall into hands of persons who would use it in a "whispering" campaign against Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, Pacific fleet commander when the Japs struck.

2 Dead, 17 Injured In Texas Boat Blast

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 7 (AP)—Two men were killed and 17 severely burned when flames raced across the oil-coated waters of the Houston ship channel last night to explode a barge and fire another barge, a dredger, and two tug.

A spark from a welder's torch or a cigaret was believed responsible.

O. K. Publication Of Kuriles Pact

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Russia and Britain have told the United States they have no objection to publication of the Big Three agreement at Yalta for permanent Soviet control of the Kurile Islands. Date for simultaneous release has not yet been set.

Even at the risk of accentuating a trend I must admit that Zarah Inc. is slipping. This is no recent thing, it's been going on for a year or two. In a nutshell it is this—we are no longer expensive enough for our community, or, in reverse English as they say in billiards, we are now too cheap for many of our clients. This, of course, surprises me. For one who has had a decade's abuse as the thief above all others I find it difficult to accustom myself to the daily sight of customers leaving my shop because our merchandise is not sufficiently expensive. After ten years of the either I am unprepared for this turn in events.

Now just for the record and with no thought that anyone will be convinced let me make a few observations. This company, believe it or not, never was interested in price for price's sake and isn't now. We have always bought the best things we could and let the prices fall where they may. In the general success 98% of what we bought we sold at a fair profit, the rest we sold to relatives. For example from 1933 to 1939 when no one seemed to have a thing we bought, amongst other things, some elegant David & John Anderson shirtings and sold them for $7.50 a piece. Today when all America seems to have greenbacks rolling out of its ears we are unable to stock a cotton shirt over $4.50 and for the simple reason that we haven't had access to a fabric that deserves a higher price.

The same is true of hats. From 1935 on we sold men's hats of fine quality beaver fur for $20.00 each. Today, when twenty dollars for some people is the price of a haircut and shave Zarah, that old pirate, hasn't a hat over ten and the damn things aren't worth even that.

I tell you I have a gift for being right at the wrong time and wrong at the right time. For tomorrow, and I suppose there will be a tomorrow, I'll be at the old stand still beating out a wrong beat. We'll then have those same old delicacies of the good old days and no one will want them for well be stocking parsimonious when the public wants potlucks. Thank heavens, I, like that O'Hara fellow, am in a business where one can be perpetually wrong and still prosper.

Hub Lieutenant To Defend Jap

YOKOHAMA, Feb. 7 (AP)—Capt. Isao Fukuhara testified at his war crimes trial today he once had been rebuked by Gen. Temura, former head of prisoner of war administration, because his punishment of Allied prisoners was not severe enough.

The ninth war criminal to face trial is Shigemaru Odeisha, a superior private in the Japanese army and orderly at Fukuoka Branch camp. His case will open Saturday.

He is charged with beating American prisoners and contributing to the deaths of four of them by withholding available medicines. He will be defended by Lt. Warren Woods, Washington, and Lt. Thomas J. Murphy, Boston.

6 Held in Raid On Legion Post

Six men, arrested in a raid led by Capt. William H. Britt on the Orient Heights Post, American Legion headquarters, pleaded not guilty to gaming charges in East Boston District Court today and their cases were continued to next Monday.

The defendants were Anthony

Capoletto, 30, of Leyden st.; Albert Varella, 27, and Peter J. Zanto, 20, both of Gladstone st.; James J. Delaney, 43, of Leyden st.; Sarcenio Martino, 57, of Bennington st., all of East Boston; and Joseph Caggiano, 22, of Main st., Winthrop.

Officials of the post criticized the police station, declaring the men were merely playing cards and not gambling, and said they would lodge a protest with State Com. George Gardner.

Newton L. Walzer Gets Store Post

Newton L. Walzer, who entered the Army as a second lieutenant and rose to a lieutenant colonelcy, has been appointed general merchandise manager of Jordan Marsh Co.'s Great Basement Store, the company announced today.

Walzer served four years in the Quartermaster Corps. He became contracting officer for special forces' equipment and Lend-Lease leather, later being placed in charge of inspection of quartermaster products made in New England. After his first promotion to first lieutenant he held the ranks of captain, major and finally lieutenant colonel.

In returning to Jordan Marsh, he will be responsible for the operation of the basement store under C. S. Thompson, vice-president in charge of merchandising. His aides will be Henry Coyne and Fred Shaw.

Gay Divorcee Pleads Guilty

Mrs. Betty Best, 28-year-old brunette divorcee, of Bolton, N. C., pleaded guilty in East Cambridge Court today to drunkenness, malicious destruction of a police cell mattress and illegal possession of a Navy uniform.

Judge Louis L. Green told Miss Ruth Stone, probation officer, that if she could arrange to have Mrs. Best's parents come and take her home, and pay court costs, he would file the case Feb. 14. He continued it to that date for disposition, holding the divorcee in $1500 bail.

Mrs. Best was arrested the night of Jan. 26 when police found her strolling in Central sq. with a sailor's uniform on. The probation officer said the defendant admitted borrowing it from the owner after drinking with him and a woman companion.

The reason she set fire to the cell mattress, it was explained, was only to "keep warm."

Yamashita, Minus Uniform, To Die as Common Criminal

TOKYO, Feb. 7 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, his last hope for clemency denied by Gen. MacArthur, must die secretly like a common criminal on the gallows in Manila—the city his soldiers raped, pillaged and burned.

MacArthur, as final reviewing authority, today upheld the death sentence imposed by a military commission in Manila, and ordered that his one-time adversary meet his doom "stripped of uniform, decorations and other appurtenances signifying membership in the military profession."

Lt. Gen. Wilhelm D. Styer will carry out the execution secretly and then announce it. Newspapers and photographers will be barred.

Styer, commander of Army forces in the western Pacific, with headquarters in Manila, said Army-selected witnesses to the execution would not be permitted to talk for publication.

MacArthur, in final review of the case, delivered this scathing denunciation of Yamashita:

"It is not easy for me to pass judgment upon a defeated adversary in a major campaign. I have reviewed the proceedings in vain search for some mitigating circumstances on his behalf. I can find none.

"Rarely has so cruel and wanton a record been spread to the public gaze."

Two Jap Generals Moan Yamashita Fate

TOKYO, Feb. 7 (AP)—Two top-ranking generals today termed the sentencing of Lt. Gen. Yamashita to be hanged in disgrace "brutal." One said the order Yamashita be stripped of all military trappings for the gallows would have "a deep effect upon the Japanese people," but they would accept the verdict without trouble. The other said there might be demonstrations.

Homma Weeps As Wife Pleads

MANILA, Feb. 7 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Homma, who has accepted full moral responsibility for the Bataan death march, was described today by his wife as so gentle he shunned hunting as a sport.

Homma, charged with responsibility for the deaths of 67,000 Americans and Filipinos in his tenure as commander of the Philippines, bent and convulsed with tears as his pretty wife testified:

"I am proud of the fact I am the wife of Gen. Homma. I have one daughter and my one wish is that some day she will marry a man like the general."

A tear glistening in her own eye, the tiny kimono-clad Japanese woman animatedly and earnestly testified Homma thrice tried to make peace, but he did not succeed.

BOSTON ASKS FAIR DEAL

INCREASED RATS on cable messages to and from Boston have been vigorously and rightly protested by New England business interests at public hearing before Mr. Ray C. Wakefield of the Federal Communications Commission.

Speaking as president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce Mr. William K. Jackson told Mr. Wakefield that the boosted charges constituted a tidy blow to New England, particularly since this section is obliged to look to foreign outlets for its products.

The former region director of the New England Smaller War Plants Corporation, Mr. Richard C. Cooknow connected with the United States Department of Commerce, repeated Mr. Jackson's warning and said that the new rates of cents a word against the former 20-cent replaced New England at a distinct disadvantage in commercial transactions because New York, a major competitor, still enjoys the 20-cent rate.

Somebody should rise the Federal Communications Commissioners to consult a geographer.

That would show them that Boston is THREE HUNDRED MILES CLOSER to Europe than the fawcitty of New York.

Why should a mage that travels a shorter distance and therefore requires less equipment be more expensive?

GOOD KAMPLE

ALDERMAN A. DONAHUE of Lawrence has propod that his city set a good example for thether cities and towns of the Commonwealth giving tax-seized property to the veterans of World War II. Under Mr. Donahue's plan, the city-owned land would be divided into house lots and sold to the form service men at one dollar a lot.

Then the service na could use the FULL AMOUNT of their G.I. Bill of Rights loans for new homes.

None would be oppressed by excessive mortgages, as is tooften the case when a buidler has to borrow money for both the purchase of land and the construction of a house.

We have repeatedly urged the Massachusetts Legislature to enact a law making millions of acres of currently idle residential and farm land available to the veterans.

We have warned that it would be a tragic error to allow most of the tax-seized real estate to fall into the hands of speculators for sale later on at tremendously inflated prices to the ex-soldiers.

But for some never satisfactorily explained reason, the gentlemen on Beacon Hill have refused to give a foot of land to the lads who fought and won the war.

Can it be that some Senators and Representatives, particularly those from the middle and western parts of the State, do not want the veterans to settle in their communities?

OVERDUE CHANGE

MANY DISTINGUISHED clergymen, including the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, Episcopal bishop; the Rev. Joseph A. Robinson, Catholic chaplain at State's Prison, and Rabbis Beryl Cohon and Joshua L. Liebman, have asked the Massachusetts Legislature to amend the laws dealing with murder so that jurors may recommend life imprisonment in returning first degree verdicts.

Such an amendment is long overdue. All have found that it results in more convictions and discourages the tendency of soft-hearted jurors to turn loose a murderer rather than hand him over to the executioner.

Furthermore, the prosecutor's work is usually more effective when he does not have to dangle the electric chair or the hangman's noose before a jury.

For years the arbitrary death penalty law has been defeating itself in this Commonwealth and making jurors harder and harder to recruit because of the widespread opposition to capital punishment.

IT IS NOW announced that a three-wheeled automobile will shortly go into production. Automobile manufacturer states he has an automobile engine capable of making a car travel 100 miles on a gallon of synthetic fuel. And the fuel will be cheap. The first auto show held after all the manufacturers have their cars ready should be quite an event with three-wheeled autos, flying autos, cars with engines in the rear, steam propelled machines, etc. I can hardly wait to see that exhibition.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: What recent picture, if any, have you seen more than once? The film my girl friend keeps going to see is "A Song to Remember." She has seen it three times already and is going to see it again tonight. For an outfit starting at 65, men get more than 8 per cent interest, while women get less than 7 per cent. This strongly illustrates the firm belief insurance experts have the average woman will outlive the man. Men having annuities should take this as a challenge and try to live longer than the average woman.

PROPOSAL: What were your exact words when you proposed to the charming young woman who became your wife? And what was the wording of her answer? According to Robert Taylor, his proposal to Barbara Stanwyck was short, simple and direct and her answer was likewise. "Will you marry me?" asked Bob. "Of course, darling," answered Barbara. "I'll marry you any time you say."

PASSING BY: Pat O'Brien. One of Milwaukee's gifts to Hollywood. Leading specialist in the portrayal of bad guys with good hearts. After 15 years of marriage he and his charming mate are anticipating a blessed event for the first time. Pat is taking the course for expectant fathers and will receive his degree of prepared parent in about four weeks.

George Sisler. The third greatest first baseman of all time. One of the select group of major leaguers with a record of having batted over .400 for one season. George's son, Dick, a minor leaguer, appears to have inherited his papa's hitting ability and then some. Dick is displaying such unusual talent as a slugger that many experts are hailing him as the successor of "Babe" Ruth.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Am I right in saying the only actress besides Maude Adams for whom Sir James Barrie wrote a play was Elisabeth Bergner? A—Believe you are in error, Sir James was once much interested in Gaby Deslys and wrote a piece for her called "Rosalind." Q—What do you think of vodka as a beverage? A—Don't care for it. However, from a medicinal standpoint, it is said to be a good drink for places where below zero weather occurs. Warns a man up considerably. Q—Many husky six-footers are born in Scotland. Why is it no Scotsman has had what it takes to make a heavyweight boxing champion. A—Don't know the answer to that. However, it isn't because Scotsmen haven't tried to succeed as heavyweight boxers. Many have and failed. I understand some British sportscribes believe Scotland has a heavyweight championship prospect in fellow named Ken Shaw, from Dundee.

PLEASE NOTE: A British journalist points out that influenza kills eight times as many Londoners per 1000 of population as New Yorkers. Also that over a three-year period the general death rate of London is 30 per cent higher than that of New York and for infants 70 per cent higher. These statistics make London appear an extremely unhealthy city. Perhaps the British capital is not all it should be in that respect. But in considering this statistical comparison, it may be kept in mind that New York is probably the healthiest large city in the world.

WRONG INFANT: A commentator on the subject of blessed events in hospitals says 20 or more years ago there might have been some cases when mothers were given the wrong child by a careless hospital staff. That doesn't happen any more. However, this is something I don't have to worry about. I was born at home. On good old East 120th st. near Pleasant ave., in Manhattan.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1946, by King Features Syndicate

THOSE SOLDIERS and sailors who have been angry at the Big Brass whom they accuse of luxurious self-indulgence and other offenses against the ranks are mistaken if they think this sort of thing will not continue in civil life, under the New Deal.

The City of New York always assumed that the Mayor would find his own quarters and pay his own rent until the year 1942, in the era of the common man, when the office was occupied by Fiorello LaGuardia.

Then the Gracie mansion, of 15 rooms on a plot of 13 acres on the East river, a site that no rich man would be allowed to monopolize for his personal comfort and pleasure in these days of congestion, became, by action of the Board of Estimate, the official residence of the Mayor.

It is a beautiful estate, luxuriously furnished, adorned by priceless antiques from the museums of the city and a library requisitioned from the public library and is maintained by the Department of Parks. It could rent for at least $50,000 a year.

THIS PERQUISITE of a public office paying a salary of $25,000 was established in the reign of one who never tired of professing his great selfless devotion to the common man but was momentarily spurned by William O'Dwyer when he succeeded LaGuardia.

Mr. O'Dwyer was going to continue to live in his modest, two-family house on the far side of the East river, but temptation grabbed him by the wrist and, with a quick, firm twist, threw him violently.

It was then announced that his little home was for sale, an altruistic sacrifice, no doubt, designed to relieve the housing problem by just that much. Waiting only until the Department of Parks could effect the wear and tear left by his predecessor and redecorate the mansion to his taste, Mayor O'Dwyer and his family moved in.

AS A SUPPLEMENT to complaints of troops who have had to wait long in formations for reviews by inconsiderate generals, memory, and the record, recall an incident at Ft. Des Moines, the original headquarters of the WAACs, then known as the WAACs, when the young patriotic pioneers of this corps were turned out in bitter winter weather to be reviewed by a distinguished visitor.

The distinguished visitor had no more right to review the corps, no more right to this honor, than your own Aunt Hattie and she arrived late on a government plane on which she had no right to fly.

Growing impatient in the cold, the WAACs presently began to chant, according to a contemporary account in the Des Moines Register, to the tune of "The Old Gray Mare": "Here we stand, freezing and shivering, waiting for Eleanor."

IF THESE resentful soldiers think regimentation will end when they come home, let them listen to excerpts from a letter from Charles L. Sheehan and Joseph D'Ambrosio, Boston teamsters, who had made certain charges against officers of their local union. Sheehan is a Marine veteran of Iwo Jima. D'Ambrosio served in the Navy.

Last Oct. 17, their letter says, they visited the union office to confer with P. Harry Jennings, the trustee, appointed by Dan Tobin, the international president, to run the local.

Under such trusteeships, local autonomy is suspended, in some cases for years and the local members become wards of the international big brass.

Jennings was out but Frank J. Halloran, the business agent, met them, the veterans say.

Sheehan and D'Ambrosio also say that Halloran is married to the granddaughter of John Gillespie, the secretary-treasurer of the international, whose headquarters are in Indianapolis.

Alleged to have socked Mr. Halloran the two veterans were arrested. In court on appeal, they were acquitted of assault but, by way of a Christmas present from old Dan Tobin, the monarch of the union, who enjoys a winter palace on Miami Beach at the expense of the good old common man, they were fined $250 each by the union, and suspended for one year, which means that they can't work as teamsters during that time.

The union trial was conducted by one man who owes his job to Tobin and the rest of the union's Big Brass, and Tobin made the final decision, having assumed jurisdiction under the teamsters' constitution which practically permits him to reverse the findings of the courts, inflict fines and throw veterans out of work, permanently, if it comes to that.

"Yep, Pete! My future's all set, with prospects in three newspaper contests, five raffles, eight radio quiz programs, and a sweepstakes!"

Hollywood

Distributed by International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 7.—I am sure Charlie Keornier would have been pleased to know that N. Peter Rathvon, his close friend and business associate for many years, has decided to stay here and take over Charlie's duties. That is what RKO will function just as it did when Charlie was at the helm. Rathvon is President of Radio-Keith-Orpheum, and actually the last word in RKO's decisions, was asked by Floyd Odium, one of the owners of this fast-growing company, to stay here and take over, realizing the importance to the company, consented.

So the Rathvons, both charming people, will make their home in Hollywood and they will be a definite acquisition to Hollywood's social and business life. Ned Depner, a very capable citizen, will take over the Rathvon duties in New York. The best thing about the appointment of Rathvon as production head is that the various departments will function as they always have. William Dozier, Jack Gross, Robert Sparks and Sidney Rogell continue as executive heads.

WHEN I HEARD that Darryl Zanuck had given the nod to George Jessel to go ahead with Gustav Flaubert's famous classic "Madame Bovary" I thought I must have the signals mixed. George is usually associated with musicals, gags and young brides (I'm kidding, I'm kidding, son!) but if he wants something different he gets his wish with this novel that was so sensational when it was published in the middle 1850's that the author was brought into court on a salacious literature charge. Now it wouldn't create a ripple. The star George wants for Madame Bovary is Gene Tierney—and she would be good, too.

NEVER IN ALL the history of Hollywood have there been as many political angles over a picture as there are in the case of "Life With Father." Naturally, Howard Lindsay wants his wife, Dorothy Stickney, for the mother role, and I doubt if he'll consent to anyone else playing the part if there is a chance of her getting it. And, according to Mike Curtiz, no one is yet set. He tells me Mary Pickford stepped out of the contest several days ago. She, too, felt there were too many politics. Mrs. Clarence Day must pass on every test and her word is final. No one can be cast unless Howard Lindsay says so. And up to now, there is nothing definite about Irene Dunne. Lindsay is still trying to get Dorothy Stickney, who opened in the New York stage play and was in for the entire run.

ONLY A FEW weeks ago Ronald Reagan was lamenting that he hadn't started a picture and was eager to get to work after four years in the Army. Well, he won't have reason to complain any more. After he finishes "Station Road" he'll go into a picture called "The Unfaithful," by Joe Pegano, to be produced by Jerry Wald. The story will tackle the widespread problem of returning soldiers who find their wives have been unfaithful. Ronnie plays a soldier just back from Japan.

I HAD SO MANY letters from Rita Hayworth fans asking if she were giving up dancing for good because she appeared in "Gilda" in a dramatic role, so I am glad to tell you she's now doing her dance rehearsals for "Down to Earth." I had lunch with Rita and she told me she hadn't danced since before the baby came. She had no idea how stiff her muscles had become but she's right back in her stride now. She says she loves doing "Gilda" but is never going to give up dancing entirely—that is, while she's still young.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: When Don Hartmann and Sam Goldwyn were warring and Don was getting ready to sue Sam to break his writing contract, there was a very amusing angle. His complaint accused Sam of "mental cruelty" and "incompatibility." The boys later settled their troubles because it's hard to stay mad at Don, who is as brilliant a wit as he is a writer. But laughs, or not—he's a boy who knows his own mind. When Harry Cohn wanted to sign him on a long term, Don refused saying—"Just a picture by picture deal."

BILLY DE WOLFE, who swears he never gets into my column except under the alias of Don De Fore, goes into "The Perils of Pauline" with Betty Hutton. All right, Billy—I can go along with a gag. It's you, not Don, who will help rescue Pauline from all the perils she encounters. But the boy who wins her in this bewilderment will be John Lund, who is now playing opposite Olivia De Havilland in "To Each His Own." George Marshall will direct because he has good luck with Hutton—or should I say she has good luck with him?

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Luise Rainer expects her baby in New York in two weeks; Monty Woolley, I hear from the East, is much improved in health and will soon be back among us. That's good news; Shirley Temple revealed her dark, dum past to her bridegroom, John Agar, when she took him to a kiddie matinee to see "Little Miss Marker." Not every bridegroom can see how his bride looked at the age of four; the friends of Tallulah Bankhead stood in line to congratulate her on her performance in "Foolish Notion." What a gal and what an actress! I saw the Alfred Hitchcock stop by to greet John Emery, who is in the play. He was in "Spellbound," which Hitch directed. Tallulah told me she's only going to be here two weeks—but she could play for six months if she wanted, because everyone wants to see her. Tallulah has had the flu ever since he struck town, but he's a little better now.

JOHN FREDERICS is here with his spring fashions and so is Ted Sandler, art director for Lennen and Mitchell; Mrs. Bart Marshall is back from New York after a whirl in the big town; Dorothy McGuire hurried East to meet her husband, John Swartz, who is arriving from Europe; Jack Marshall, the impersonator, opens Monday at Saks Fifth Avenue with the usual standbys—Ben Blue, Patti Moore and Ben Lessy in the line up; Rosie Dolly and Irving Mitchell are in town at the Beverly Hills Hotel on their way to Palm Springs. Yes, they liked "The Dolly Sisters"; the blue mink coat Sylvia Sydney wears in "Mr. Ace and the Queen" cost $27,000 and is insured for the full value; Loretta Young received word from Tom Lewis that his mother passed away on Friday. He's been in the East with her since Christmas. Sympathy goes to Tom at this time.

By George Dixon

THIS ARGUMENT, Mr. Kofoed points out, will not hold water because the help does not get any—no hardly any—of that $50 a day. Tipping, he says, is a recognized American institution and hotel and nightclub operators do not pay the help living wages because they figure they can get along exceedingly well on tips.

I am afraid that the Messrs. Bruun and Kofoed are right. As long as we recognize the tipping system, we are obligated to make the size of the tips commensurate with the amount of the bill and the service rendered.

THERE IS ONLY one mild argument I would like to make on the other side. Millions of Americans have had extreme cause to be discouraged about tipping. No matter how lavish they have been with gratuities they have received only poor service and discourtesy in return.

It is no uncommon sight to see a waiter, whose sole service has consisted of bringing one tray of dishes, turn up his nose at a $1 tip.

I HAVE JUST received the following from Mr. George Goddard, the Washington food expert:

"The Department of Agriculture is the outfit that must dispose of surplus food held by other government agencies. It is getting some honey now from the Army and Navy and

George Holland

Boston After Dark

CLEVELAND—we are astonished to learn—is American headquarters for Hawaiian music . . . As many as 3000 pupils are enrolled in a music institute which teaches only Hawaiian music, and the students come from all over America . . . The Ohio city is headquarters this year (March 27), for the National Musical Educators' conference, and all the big shots of Broadway's music business are planning to make a pilgrimage to Cleveland for the convention.

NEED A CHRISTENING coat for the infant? . . . A nice one may be purchased for $1500 at L. Brogan's, couturier to society's progeny for three generations, in the Radio City shop . . . Esther Dorothy of Boston is advertised nationally in the fashion and slick-paper magazines, and the oracles forecast her as the No. 1 girl in the fur-designing business in 1947—if not earlier.

THE MOST remarkable dancer we have seen is a young blonde named Adele Inge, headlining the skating show at the New Yorker's Terrace Room. She does a somersault on skates without touching the ice with her hands . . . Tommy Tucker's orchestra is playing currently at the New Yorker, but a trio of attractive singing girls has replaced Wee Bonnie Baker, the baby-voiced cutie who revived "Oh, Johnny, Oh, Johnny" and was responsible for a rash of baby-voiced babes breaking out in their unbecomingly cute faces over the face of the land via the airwaves . . . Remember? . . . Or like us, do you like to forget it.

IT WILL INTEREST you to know about the high-pressure competition in one profession this season in Miami Beach . . . We are speaking of the profession of bookmaking . . . so many of its practitioners have settled in Miami Beach, that the competition is becoming cut-throat . . . Rival bookmakers are so intent on their prey that this is the service being rendered: The friendly bookmaker picks you up at your hotel in private car and wheels you to the track. He buys your admission, and sits you either at his table on the Terrace or the clubhouse of Gulfstream Park or in his box in the grandstand (there being no clubhouse boxes) . . . He takes your "place" for "action" until the horses break, and some of them—we hear—are giving the customers a sixteenth of a mile in route races in which to form their selections . . . After the races, you are driven home . . . But here is the payoff . . . If you play consistently with the same bookmaker for the duration of your visit, and if your visit is three weeks or longer, the enterprising bookmaker will refund 40 per cent of your losses.

TIN PAN ALLEY'S verdict is that Boston and New England are "20 years behind the times, musically" . . . (The Boston Symphony saves us from a blank) . . . The Midwest and the so-called "Bible Belt" of the Deep South rate far ahead of "down east," the prophets of the Alley insist . . . They point to Chicago's tremendous annual musical festival at Soldier Field where school and college choral societies, and orchestras and bands affiliated with fraternal and social organizations, with as many as 2500 pieces in one band, sell out the 100,000 seats at Soldier Field without difficulty.

Olive oil once cost $1.75 a gallon—for the best. It costs $10 here and $15 in Miami . . . Some excellent oil is being imported from Spain these days, but the precious lubricant which used to pour from sunny Italy in a flood has not yet started to flow . . . Peter J. Fetter, assistant manager to Gilbert Johnson at the Myles Standish, has been promoted to the management of the Sheraton Hotel in New Britain, Ct. . . . Pete's first move on assuming his new position was to redecorate the cocktail lounge and to start work on a Satire Room . . . Speaking of the Satire Room, the original unit of the chain (mostly Sheraton Hotel adjuncts) was in the Fensgate here in Boston . . . But Spencer L. Sawyer, managing director of the Sheraton and Russell Hotels in New York, gets credit for the "discovery" of Noble and King, the singers, who are currently at the Copley Plaza's Oval Room . . . It was Mr. Sawyer who brought the young singers to New York, and it was at the Sheraton Hotel there that they were signed by Arki-Yavensonne for their first Boston engagement at the Fensgate Satire Room.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7 (AP)—An aircraft engineer, tired of being called a tramp, has filed a petition in superior court to change his name to William F. Cramer.

He said he had taken a ribbing from friends throughout his 47 years, and he's had enough. His name is William Ferdinand Tramp.

MIAMI BEACH, Feb. 7—There has been a lot in the local newspapers lately about the paucity of tipping this season. "Paucity" means there ain't much of it.

The writers declare, with varying degrees of indignation, that folks who are paying $30 and $60 a day for hotel rooms—that's no exaggeration—are giving few, if any, tips and that the help is starving to death amid profligate plenty.

Unfortunately, this seems to be true. Waiters, bus boys, bellhops, chambermaids and other servants are finding it almost impossible to live. They took jobs down here with prospects of a fat season and are garnering in only a few nickels and dimes.

Two of the most indignant about this situation are Mr. Paul Bruun, the eminent Miami Beach historian, and Mr. Jack Kofoed, who also does newspaper work for a living. They are particularly wrathful at visitors who seemingly think nothing of betting $300 on a single horse race, then stuff themselves with a $10 dinner and leave a dime for the waiter.

Mr. Kofoed already has had a number of kick-backs from visitors who argue that when they are forced to pay $50 a day they have a right to expect the help to rush around like mad serving them, without any further charges.

Broadway

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—There's another Van (besides Johnson) in Sonja Henie's life these days—namely, Moving van. This van made several trips to Dan Topping's Park ave. apartment door and also to his country estate and collected literally roomfuls of Sonja's furniture with orders to ship it to sunny California.

Sonja Henie

The moving men reported that Sonja didn't seem in the least depressed by her divorce; indeed that all she talked about was the $12,000 fur coat she was getting. Manlike, they didn't find out what kind. . . . Tin Pan Alley mathematicians estimate that Billy Rose's profit on the movie of his life, figuring additional song royalties, will run to more than a million dollars. . . . Betty Jane Watson, the "OklaHoma!" leading lady, is temporarily out of the cast. Cold, of course. . . . Film actor Richard Greene tells friends he intends to turn down the "Forever Amber" role when he reaches the Coast.

ANY BELLE with an eye for couturier clothes could discern that the costumes in the theatrical offering, "Born Yesterday," were designed by the great Mainbocher, although no credit was given in the program. . . . The Blackstone Hotel in Miami Beach, which usually offers discounts to celebrities, nixed one for ex-

Mayor LaGuardia. . . . Producer Joe Pasternak quite innocently proved a point in the current AGVA attempt at banning celebrity nights by being at the Leon and Eddie ringside during that cafe's celebrity session Sunday night. The impromptu offerings of comedian Kenny Nadell and singer Dean Martin impressed him so favorably that he made appointments to interview both of them. The moral being that he might never have viewed their talents if they hadn't done a turn at a "guest star" evening.

THE QUICK BYE-BYE of "Nellie Bly" didn't sour Nat Karson's disposition. He very pleasantly granted permission to three chorines to leave the show days ahead of its closing so they'd be on time for rehearsals at a Miami Beach cafe. . . . John Payne and his bride fly into town today. . . . William Bendix, whose ulcer trouble sent him to the hospital last year, now is suffering terribly from sinus. . . . Word is drifting in from the one-night-stand towns that the touring Dead Enders, Huntz Hall and Bobby Jordan, have been acting their parts offstage, too—even to the point of fisticuff.

"Rose Marie" Now Booked for 2d Week

Comes word from the Shubert press department that Rudolf Friml's operetta, "Rose Marie," originally scheduled for one week at the Opera House, beginning Monday night, will remain here for two weeks. This will push back both "The Merry Widow" and "The Passing Show" openings at the same theater. The opening date for "The Merry Widow" is now set for Feb. 25 and the run for this melodious Viennese operetta also will be for two weeks.

tocratic Boston couple who were unable to have children of their own.

Through a doctor, who had delivered the child to an unwed mother, they obtained a beautiful two-weeks-old baby and for a time were blissfully happy.

But as the baby grew it developed facial characteristics which showed it had Jewish blood and this circumstance laid the couple open to whispered slander.

One of their closest friends was a prominent Jewish attorney and the whisperers muddled his and their names with the sly and unfounded hint that he was the child's father in an affair with the foster mother.

The scandal ruined their happiness and that of the child as well.

In another case a child of superior intelligence was placed by a doctor with a wealthy but dull-witted couple, and as he grew up he was constantly frustrated by intellectual friction between himself and his devoted foster parents.

Had the child been placed with parents of his own intellectual level or had the couple obtained a child with less mental endowment, there could have been happiness for both boy and foster parents. Instead there was constant friction which neither side could understand.

In another case, a mother, assisted by a doctor, placed her child with a family the doctor had recommended, obviously without any investigation, when the infant was four days old.

After the usual six months, the case came to Probate Court on an adoption petition and the resulting investigation disclosed that a few years previously the child placing agency had been forced to remove another child from the home.

The first child had been punished so frequently and harshly by the foster parents that its health had been endangered. As a result, of this evidence the court refused to grant the adoption petition but for several months the helpless baby had been exposed to the possibility of permanent injuries from cruel foster parents.

In still another case a lawyer was told by an insurance agent that one of his clients was interested in placing her six-year-old illegitimate daughter in a foster home. The attorney visited the mother and told her he knew a well-to-do couple anxious to adopt a child of that age.

There was no proof that the lawyer gave the mother any money in the transaction but she signed a release and the child was placed with the foster parents.

When the adoption petition came up in probate court, investigation disclosed another child had been removed from that home previously because of the actions of the foster father.

The next instalment in this series will appear in tomorrow's American.

Prof. Hudson Heard At Land-Grab Quiz

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Prof. Manly O. Hudson of Harvard University, former judge of the international court of justice, told a Senate committee today in "general principle" court decisions on submerged land ownership do not distinguish between inland and coastal lands.

Hudson, a witness for California, said some Supreme Court decisions relate to a combination of submerged coastal lands and inland lands.

"I cannot say there is an exact precedent for determination of title to land under the marginal sea wholly unconnected with the shore," he told the Senate judiciary committee.

The committee is considering House-passed legislation to surrender to the states any federal claim to tidelands and inland submerged lands. See Jack's told the committee Tuesday previous Supreme Court decisions had confirmed state titles only to inland submerged lands.

Two independent oil operators opposed the bill. George P. Drury, assistant attorney general of Massachusetts, told the committee a attempt to upset the title of Massachusetts to the ocean floor within the three-mile limit really affects the title to holdings in Boston erected on filled land originally covered by the tides.

Assign Combat Units To 3 N. E. Air Bases

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—New England's three major Army air bases—at Chicopee, Mass., Bangor, Me., and Manchester, N. H.—will be assigned combat groups, according to Army officials.

As now recommended there will be a fighter group at Dow Field, Bangor; a very heavy bombardment group at Grenier Field, Manchester; and a bomber or fighter group at Westover. Fighter groups call for about 25 planes and bomb groups, 125 planes.

Keep Diet Balanced

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

WARTIME NUTRITION taught many a home makes the food requirements of each member of her family, plus the value of a well balanced diet. The story still holds true and must not be forgotten just because the war is over. Our accomplishments mirror our physical well being, therefore our bodies must be strong, our minds alert.

One food that we are likely to consider a tasty treat, without thought of its nutrients or its possibilities as a major dietary constituent, is the peanut. This tiny brown nut is rich in body building protein and easily digested fats; it provides good amounts of vitamins and minerals, too. Incorporate this potent nugget in your everyday meals and awaken the full potentialities of each member of your family.

The peanut's use is limitless, dishes using them are simple to prepare; and to top it all, they are abundant and inexpensive. Here are some smart quickies worth trying—toss a generous handful of peanuts into the stuffing of the bird, or marinate a chopped peanut confection through packaged puddings.

PEANUT STUFFING

1 tsp. minced onion
1 tbsp. butter, margarine or drippings
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1/2 cup salted peanuts, ground
1/2 tsp. salt, if desired
Cayenne
1/2 cup milk or stock
Cook onion slowly in fat 5 minutes. Add bread crumbs, peanuts, salt and a dash of cayenne. Soften with the milk or stock. This makes sufficient stuffing for 1 medium sized fowl or 6 pork chops.

Main dish recipes using peanuts are popular with young and old alike. Investigate their goodness tonight using the recipes below. You'll find they will stack up with the family favorites.

PEANUT AND CHEESE ROAST

1 cup grated cheese
1 cup bread crumbs
1 tsp. chopped onions
1 cup finely ground peanuts
1 tsp. butter, margarine or drippings
Juice of 1/2 lemon
Salt and pepper to taste
Cook the onion in the butter until lightly brown. Mix with all other ingredients and moisten with water. Pour into a shallow baking dish and brown in a moderate oven, (350 deg. F.).

MOCK VEAL CUTLETS

2 cups dried bean or pea pulp
1/2 cup butter, margarine or drippings
1 tsp. grated onion
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 cup fine bread crumbs
1 cup strained tomatoes
1 cup salted peanuts, finely chopped
2 tbsp. tomato catsup
Salt to season
Pepper to season

Leftover beans or peas may be used. Blend all ingredients together. Form into cutlets. Dip into egg, then into fine buttered bread crumbs. Place in a well greased baking pan. Bake in a 400 deg. F. oven about 20 to 30 minutes. Serve with a sauce.

PEANUT LUNCHEON DISH

2 cups steamed rice (leftover rice may be used)
1/2 cup salted peanuts (coarsely ground)
1 cup milk
1 tsp. salt, if desired
1 egg
1 tsp. paprika
1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. onion juice
Mix steamed rice and ground peanuts. Arrange in buttered

Cleanser Is First Skin Treatment

By RUTH MUGGLEWEE

Beauty and Fashion Editor

AS CHILDREN we're taught that beauty of soul is all that matters. But as grownups we come to learn that beauty of face is a greater help in more ways than one. And when you come right down to it . . . what is beauty?

It's the way you walk, head high and proud . . . the way you talk, the soft, well-modulated lilt in your voice . . . that certain indefinable twinkle in bright, clear eyes . . . the provocative warmth of full-blooded lips.

You're not a Hedy Lamarr nor a Lana Turner . . . and neither are we. But, come now, if the truth be told . . . if we're honest with ourselves . . . don't we think we're not so bad to look at for all that? So we haven't the most perfectly chiseled features in the world. So what! But that doesn't stop us from making the most of the face we have . . . and do the best job we can within our God-given limitations.

And your complexion, is your face. You may be a million dollar baby below the chin line . . . swathed in silks and satins . . . but it's your face that expresses your personality . . . the thoughts you think . . . the life you want . . . the dreams you cherish and hope to realize. It's all written in your face. Beauty is a relative term, however, and it's such an unshakable institution?

So give your skin a chance these days of icy winds and steam-heated rooms . . . give it a chance to shake off that dry and flaky exterior which mars the ultimate illusion of loveliness. Don't be satisfied with paper-shiny spots on your face . . . those danger signals which should be corrected if you expect to present a smooth, glowing complexion to the world.

The first step in a winter skin treatment is a cleanser . . . a pleasant, efficient, rich, luscious cream which softens as it removes the impurities of the day's accumulation. You wouldn't go to bed with your stockings on. It's even worse to go to bed with all your makeup on. A scrupulously clean face is the beauty battle half won . . . a cornerstone for building an exquisitely-textured, youthfully-alive complexion. And when you follow this with a skin-stimulating and circulation-raising lotion and a lubrication cream . . . you've given your face the works . . . and winter's wiles are on the wane.

For the names of these winter beauty treatments, write, phone the Beauty Dept., LIB-ery 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NO WOMAN is either too young or too old to realize the importance of skin care . . . especially in winter time when outdoor blasts and indoor steam heat try their hardest to sabotage a lovely complexion. A simple beauty formula designed for every woman can be protection of a charming skin or the means of acquiring one.

Girl's Heart and Parents Cause Mixup Over Love

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WHEN YOUR HEART tells you to do a thing, and your parents tell you not to do it, it's no wonder a teen-age girl gets mixed up. Plenty of people much mind about him. If we ever break up, I couldn't go on.

"MISS PUZZLED"

Sometimes, "Miss Puzzled," when one has a problem to which there seems to be only two choices, one for and one against the course one wants to follow, there actually is a third possible choice that's a compromise between the two others.

You feel that you've either got to follow your parents' advice and refuse to enter into a four-year engagement—which you are afraid may lose you this young man—or oppose them, agree to a formal engagement and wear his ring.

But why not consider the middle ground that lies between these two extremes? Why not tell your young man that, since he does not feel ready to marry for all of four years, you, on your side, feel that it would be wiser to give yourselves one more year before announcing any formal engagement? Luring that year you can have as definite an understanding between the two of you as you like. But don't publicize it; keep it just between yourselves. Then if, at the end of the year, if you both still feel as you do now, you might accept and wear his ring.

It is a very good indication . . . the firmness of this boy's convictions that he had made his decision to finish his training. His ability to know what he wants, to choose it, and then to stick with it should help give you confidence in the stability of his feelings. Too, since he is this type of person, he will undoubtedly see the reasonableness of your suggestion to wait one more year.

When you have settled this matter between yourselves, then go to your parents and tell them what you have decided to do. I feel sure they will agree to such a reasonable proposition.

But don't try to settle your whole future now. Be content to make a plan for a year ahead. You are both very young and can afford a little patience. A lot of things might happen in the course of the year to change the whole picture and make you more certain of what to do.

High, Low Neckline

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THIS IS going to be a fashion season of extremes in necklines. There are going to be a lot of daytime clothes with necklines way down low, and there are going to be others with the necklines almost up to the ears. If you are the kind that go in for new styles, you will be wearing one or the other, or maybe both at different times.

Before you go in for neckline extremes, however, I think you ought to consider what they do to you. You are always there, inside your dress, and you ought to count for something. What Nature has provided you with in the way of a neck, a face and shoulders must be what controls the kind of neckline you decide to adopt, no matter what fashion says.

The future bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Siegfried J. Thannhauser who bought the sumptuous home of the late Dr. Robert Greenough on Ivy st., where the wedding reception will be held. Dr. Thannhauser is a prominent physician at the Boston Dispensary.

The romance of Gertrude and George began when they were working for their graduate degrees at Rutgers College—she for an M.A. and he for a Ph.D. She also graduated from Vassar and for the past year and a half has been doing research in the biochemistry lab at Harvard Medical School. Mr. Beyer is a research chemist at Eastman Kodak.

Anastasia Maria Thannhauser, sister of the bride, will be maid of honor and another sister, Gretchen, a student at Winsor, will be a bridesmaid. The other bridesmaids are Elizabeth Wallis of Philadelphia and Marian Rowland of Des Moines, Iowa.

Donald Beyer of Bridgeport, Ct., a brother of the groom, will be best man. The ushers will be Kurt Homberg of Brookline, Jerry Applegarth of San Francisco and Harvard Medical School, and Arnold Jeltzsch of Cincinnati, who received his Ph.D. with the groom at Rutgers.

MRS. JAMES DEXTER WOOD, SON of Portsmouth, N. H., announces the marriage, Feb. 3, of her daughter, Catherine Bergen Woodson, to Capt. Nathaniel McLean Sage, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel McL. Sage of Brookline. The ceremony was performed by Rev. William W. Lewis in the parsonage of the Unitarian Church, Portsmouth.

SOCIALITE YACHTING enthusiasts who've been waiting five summers to sail a boat in races off the North and South Shores are flocking to the Sportsmen's Show to look over the latest in sailboats and cruisers. Glanced the other evening at the boat exhibits were David Cutler and his dad, Gen. Elliott C. Cutler, Bob and Quincey Meyer with the Alfred Meyers, Jr., who do their sailing at Plymouth, and Sylvia and Arthur Martin of Brookline.

MRS. CHARLES MATZ was accompanied by her two daughters at yesterday's Morning Musical at which Martial Singher was guest artist. Mrs. Garfield Horn (Sandy Matz) is home from Washington to visit her family and wore a gay little springlike hat of pink roses and blue ribbon. Her sister, Mrs. Harry B. Anderson, was as modish as ever in checked tweeds.

16 More Boston Skiers Enter Foley Memorial

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Sixteen members of a famous Boston ski club, which prefers to remain anonymous, have just filed their entries for the Walter Foley Memorial Ski Race. All are eligible, since no one in the group has a regular racing classification.

Five of the fair sex in this contingent are Christine Cunningham, Betty Horton, Helen Fudge, Ruth DaFarno and Jane Greenleaf. Their male companions who will face the flag are Bert Gourley, Charles Porter, Charles Wolf, Ray McIntyre, Jack Jones, Bruno DaFarno, Bill Tarkey, Chris Johnson, Les Horton, "Slippery" Martin and Henry Paris.

Sponsored by the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser, the Foley Memorial is scheduled to be held on the huge Mittersill Open Slope, Franconia, N. H., Feb. 16 and 17. The women's division starts at 1:30, Saturday afternoon, with the men's slalom set for the same time, Sunday afternoon. Entries are free and may be sent to this writer; or to Bernard Herbert, director, Mittersill Club Ski Area, Franconia, N. H. Post-entries will be accepted up to noon each day of the race, at the club's office in the town, or at the slope.

The race is being conducted for recreational skiers only, to honor the memory of "Tim" Foley, a former Malden boy and staff artist for these newspapers who died on bloody Guadalcanal, battling the Japs.

Priest Spices Goodwin Card

With the addition of Al "Red" Priest to the Goodwin A. C. boxing card at the Garden Monday evening, this show now becomes an expensive ring offering.

Priest, who replaces Joey LaMotta of New York, against Joe Blackwood, will receive the biggest purse of the show, $4000. The Goodwin Club earlier refused to meet this figure, set by Priest.

But LaMotta was cut in a bout with Bobby Berger, who was knocked out by Priest a couple of weeks ago, and so the Goodwin Club met Priest's demand, to improve the card of four 10-round bouts.

The other tens include: Ralph Zaneli of Providence against Marine Garvey Young; Johnny Pretzie, Boston heavyweight, against Jay D. Turner of Texas who stopped Pretzie with but four seconds to go in a recent Arena main event; and Howard Thompson of Saugus, making his first start since coming out of the Navy, against heavyweight Big Boy Baker of Everett.

Hub Office Planned By TRA Turf Sleuth

By DAVE WILSON

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7.—But for bearing out badly during the final 100 yards of the race, the Sunshine Stable's Cinderella colt, Buzfuz, probably would have reversed the decision over Calumet's famed Armed in yesterday's Sunshine Purse at beautiful Hialeah Park.

Buzfuz held a commanding lead passing the 16th pole and appeared to be going easily when he suddenly decided to forsake the inner rail for the outside one.

Jockey Doug Dodson, astride Armed, took full advantage of his opponent's mistake and drove his mount through on the rail to be up just in time to snare the verdict by a neck margin.

The way that race was run, it is doubtful if Armed could have come around Buzfuz and won the purse.

And by the same token it is also doubtful if Buzfuz will be able to stay with Armed at level weights in any race over seven furlongs.

Spencer Drayton, newly appointed chief of the Bureau of Protection for race tracks affiliated with the TRA, held an informal press conference yesterday afternoon in the publicity office at Hialeah Park.

Drayton gave the press boys no inkling his present plans for cleaning up the turf, other than to state that his investigators have been on the grounds at Hialeah for several weeks.

Drayton plans to open offices in Miami, New York, Los Angeles and Chicago. Drayton added that later on he contemplated opening an office in Boston.

Hialeah track police have been giving bookies the well-known heave-to in wholesale numbers during the past few days. Spencer Drayton's salary is reported to be $35,000 a year and his assistants are reputed to receive $1000 each month.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 16 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 16 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.
